

Spring finally came

Finally, the season of flowers blooming, of birds singing, of the green colour appearing, came. A lot of people are enjoying the time outside and the sun shining through every corner of the window. It is the season of mother nature appearing.

This issue's topic is SPRING FESTIVALS

March is full of surprises. It is the month when not only nature becomes alive, but also the time when a lot of festivals and celebrations appear. We somehow celebrate life again. In this issue, you will find info about various celebrations during the spring.

March 8th

International Women's Day , March 8 , is a public holiday in some countries. In Lithuania, March 8 is a memorable day , celebrated as International Women's Solidarity Day. Since 1975 International Women's Day is celebrated by the United Nations. The idea to celebrate International Women's Day originated at the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries, when rapid industrialization and economic development led to mass protests against harsh working conditions.

8. What is your recipe for dyeing eggs?

I cut the blue cabbage finely, put it in a pot, poured water, brought it to a boil, and then covered the pot with a lid and boiled it on low heat for about 15 minutes. The resulting decoction was very dark, almost black. I strained the decoction through a sieve. I added two or three spoons of the decoction and a spoonful of vinegar to the pieces of cabbage, after straining the decoction, and mixed it. Then I used those pieces to cover the hard-boiled egg with a white shell, so that there were no gaps anywhere and the shell was not visible, I pressed it firmly and wrapped it in a cellophane bag. I put it in the fridge for a day. After a day, I unwrapped it and very carefully, gently removed the layer of cabbage. Do not wash the daisy under any circumstances. I placed the daisy on a paper towel and let it dry naturally. After it dried, I applied a little oil. I cooled the strained cabbage decoction and mixed in vinegar. I poured the boiled white shelled egg over it so that it was completely covered. I checked that the egg did not touch the walls of the container. Then I took the egg out of the broth, placed it on a paper towel and let it dry naturally. After it dried, I applied a little oil.

Becoming a dancer

Every profession is important and different. This time we want to share some information about the dancers job. Our dance teacher Oksana Legackaja gladly agreed to answer some questions.

1. What sciences are important to become a dancer?

I think all the knowledge is needed! But specifically, for a dancer, in my opinion, strength, endurance, artistry, knowledge in the field of art, history, knowledge of languages are important.

2. Can only men or only women be dancers?

Anyone can be a dancer! The most important thing is to have the desire, but, you know, to constantly improve.

3. Is the profession of a dancer popular?

In my opinion, the profession of dancer is popular. My former student is studying LMTA at the Lithuanian Academy of Music and Theater and is already working in her specialty.

4. Did you want to be a dancer as a child?

I wasn't going to be a dancer. But I also studied music and dance as a child. I enjoyed going to concerts and shows with my friends. I wanted to be a primary school teacher. But I don't regret at all that I became a music and dance teacher.

5. What difficulties can be encountered while learning this profession?

Sometimes I don't have enough inspiration to organize interesting dances. Sometimes I get very physically tired. However, children who want to dance and participate in the show always help here. Seeing their enthusiasm immediately makes you want to create something.
